

OOOHack application (Commiserate Chicago 2020)

Object-Oriented Orgasm Hackathon: pleasure within and outside the body.

Rolling deadline: January 15, 2020, @ 11:59pm CDT.

For the longest time, artwork and sexwork have shared a similar lack of recognition for its labor and supportive financial framework. As media artists, we – the Commiserate Organizing Committee – feel deep solidarity. Following, from February 28th to March 1st, 2020, we invite you to apply to be part of OOOHack. We reach out to individuals with all levels of technical experiences and passions in the subjects of body, intimacy, and pleasure.

OOOHack is a 3-day collaborative event that explores the meanings and options of gaining sensual gratification from objects. We will select a cohort of 15-20 participants to start thinking about this question and consider the future of sex. During the Hackathon, participants and projects will be advised by invited mentors who work professionally with different aspects of sex. The cohort will receive mentorship from experts; access to sex toys, hardware, and crafts to experiment; and operational instruction for fabrication facilities. Additionally, we will be live-streaming the hackathon and broadcasting it online as well as at the main festival area. The hackathon culminates in a presentation at the Commiserate 2020 closing ceremony and will feature awards from sponsors. Breakfast, lunch, and dinner will be provided throughout the event.

This event is open to the public. This event especially, but not exclusively, reaches out to artists from under-represented communities (women, LGBTQ+, POC).

For our first year, we are prioritizing applicants in the Chicagoland area or that can fund their own travel.
